Unless you add some extra money somebrand.com/yourdomain doesn't look very professional luloinc@gmail.com is not very professional. Here is some extra money too

You have trusted servers, but also crowded ones

You need to know at least what SEO means, because your going to be alone setting this

Unless you add some extra money somebrand.com/yourdomain doesn't look very professional

Yes you can edit as much as you want but, does the result looks how you expected? Once again you are by your side

Mobile compatibility doesn't means your website is going to look as amazing as it should be and when more than 50% of your visits come from mobile, just good is not enough...

Automated support that doesn't understand your needs, the same templates as millions of people out there...you can't stand out looking the same as everyone right?

Is on you! you can do this as fast as you want...and as fast as you can
